

22nd May 1281

Austin Race

Star Cottage

Brick Lane

Dear Austin,

I am writing this letter to tell you that you should not kill The Jabberwocky. If you do, you will make the worst decision of your life; you still have the opportunity to change this.

Can you not understand that it is an injustice to kill a creature? Murder is a horrible crime. The Jabberwocky is an innocent creature that does not deserve this torture.

I fear my friend, that you do not understand the consequences of your decision. It could lead you to serious mental health issues, having to deal with this for all existence. I believe that if you kill the Jabberwocky, you will be filled with such guilt and regret; you will be sad for the rest of your life. Do you think that this is something that you could live with?

I hope you have considered the fact that the Jabberwocky is likely to have a family of his own; a family who love him, will miss him dearly and will be beside themselves with worry. If you kill him, his family will surely be heartbroken! Not to mention, they could be so angry that they try to kill you.

I hope you take all of this into consideration before you make a drastic decision. I implore you to think carefully.

Yours sincerely

Mrs L Childerley