

Example sentences if you get stuck:

I am not sure which spelling I should use in this sentence.

Thank goodness we no longer have to deal with her; she was such a witch!

I think you may have left your coat over there on the field.

Every morning, we complete spellings in school and the children take their time with these.

They're doing really well completing the work from home!

It seems like a new device is being invented every year.

We must devise a plan to make the Year 6 children stay at WPS and not leave us!!

My advice would be that you work really hard which you're at school so that you can do whatever you like when you're older.

I advise you to stop talking so that you can hear what the instructions are.

Loki was filled with excitement because he knew that we would be going for 'walkies'!

"Wow, I love your dress. Is it new?" cried the girl.

I can't wait until we can all go to school again.

I ate far too much chocolate and now can't move!

"Are you sure you want to order two burgers?"